

Equal Ground

By: Price Baer

Fallen Angels scream aloud
Trying to find ears to hear the sound
Demons are lurking all around
Keeping witness to yourself stands you on an equal ground

The evil struck and ran away
The good fights back with those who stay
Peace will come to those who pray
Good Samaritans all shall never stray

Mortals get tricked by demons who lie
They say angels want death, and so the angels cry
When we meet our maker in the kingdom in the sky
He'll ask why mortals didn't care to try

Demons violate angels, this I know

But silence makes the evil just evolve and grow

So, if you see an angel falling so low

The witness will speak truths for their spirits to glow